

A Lace Bastwe techell.

TAke twelve bowes in the selfe manner departed and set upon your hands ; as in the lace covert de cheveron, save thy fellowvs right hand shall accord to thy right hand and his left hand to thy left hand, and then shall you vwork in the selfe manner as in the covvpen covert of twelve bowes save that the bowes shall never be reversed.

A broad lace for Purfes of seven bowes.

Without a fellowv make them, and be two bowes upon B. C. of thy right hand, and two sundry bowes upon A. of thy left hand and other two sundry, upon B. of thy left hand and one upon C. of the same hand, and then shall you take vwith A. of thy right hand thorough B. C. of the selfe hand, the bowv that is uttermost upon B. left unreversed, and B. right shall take the bowve utterest upon B. left unreversed, and thorough the left bowve A. right shall take the bowve C. left unreversed. And take good care that the bowves that are on any finger meng them not, and then love thy bowves of thy left hand, and then shalt thou take vwith A. of thy left hand thorough B. C. of the selfe hand, the Bowv that is uttermost upon B. right reversed, and B. left, shall take the bowve that is uttermost upon A. right unreversed, and thorough that selfe bowve A. left shall take the bowve C. unreversed of the right hand, and lovv thy bowes, and then begin againe.

The same Lace open.

Doe in selfe manner as is aforesaid save that never a bowve shall be taken reversed, and if the bowes be departed that one shall be of one colour and thother of an other.

LEt all thy bowes be departed and set upon thy hands as is Laforesaid, and then work in the selfe manner, and what time thou hast but two bowes upon thy one hand thou shalt turne the over bow of the selfe hand, so that the selfe colour that was afore the turning above is after the turning beneath.
